

STEWART CINK (-11)

Q. Stewart, another solid round today, you have a chance to be the wire-to-wire winner tomorrow. Just takeaways from Round 2?

STEWART CINK: Well, I wouldn't characterize today's round as solid. It was a lot more scrappy than yesterday. Where yesterday I got a couple of good breaks in the rough or maybe off in the desert once or twice, today was the other way around. I had to battle a lot more and made a few bogeys, made a few birdies.

All in all, I still like where my mind and my heart are for competing out here. It's been a fun week and I'm looking forward to tomorrow.

Q. We've talked previously, you've read a book and it kind of reminded me of that, a Superman mindset book or something. Does that help you when you're out there now and you said you're scrappy and so knowing, OK, I need to stay focused and disciplined even when it's not going my way, did that help at all?

STEWART CINK: I've read so many books, you're going to have to remind me which one that was because I probably need to go back and look at my notes. That's just part of the gig out here because the players are all so good that you have to try to get an edge any possible way you can.

I do remember that book, it was called The Rise of Superman. Yeah, that's all about getting in the flow state. The whole idea is to kind of stay out of your own way and just let things happen as opposed to trying. It's easy when you're up near the lead. This is a big tournament, it means a lot to every one of us playing here. It's easy to kind of start trying a little bit too much. There's a delicate balance between being thorough and just allowing things to happen. I think today I probably tried a little bit more than I need to, so maybe tomorrow we'll get back into maybe allowing things to happen.

Q. And then today just seeing everyone out there dressed in blue, today is Dress in Blue day just to raise awareness, just the impact that had as you're coming up 18 and seeing everyone, what's that mean?

STEWART CINK: Well, there's a great crowd here. This Tucson area is just showing amazing support for all of this. I'm very happy for Cologuard and Exact Sciences and Jerry Kelly, to see this kind of turnout. It's a really cool place to come out and see and there's some good golf being played. It's a great environment to come out, hang with your buddies. You can tell everybody's enjoying themselves, there's some rowdy chants out there on the last few holes.
